Fall Art Exhibit

New China: Performance of Self in Digital Culture

August–November

Margaret Carsello is an interdisciplinary artist working in Chicago. This past year, she had the opportunity to live in Beijing, China, while teaching in a Chinese public school. Being displaced in a new country and culture, her senses and awareness were heightened to new sounds, language, sites, and visual and digital culture. This body of work explores the complexities of a collective society at odds with a staggering restless population obsessed with digital culture and the emergence of a new sense of individualism. The exhibit, free and open to the public, is located in the Quiet Reading Room.

On Topic: Modern China

Mon., Oct. 22, 7:00 p.m.–8:30 p.m.

Join us and community experts for a conversation about Our Story: A Memoir of Love and Life in China by by Rao Pingru and Nicky Harman and Young China: How the Restless Generation Will Change Their Country and the World by Zak Dychtwald. Come discuss the topic; reading the books is optional. Limit 50.
